Since the prohibition issue has been initiated, our friend Dr. Alphabet Vander, is left without a world to conquer.

Attiesburg, Miss.; where the Kentucky boys are to go, is 70 miles from the gulf and has 16,000 population. The camp is six miles from town.

An Australian leader suggests that planes be used to start wholesale fires all over Germany next month, which he says is one-fourth wheat, pine and fir.

An Evansville woman testified in court that her little daughter was turned by a Ouija board that she was operating that a man was under the bed. She told her mother and an intruder was found and a warrant was worn out for his arrest.

Gov. Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, following the example of Gov. Goodrich, of Indiana, appeared before the state council of defense, and asserting that coal prices are too high, stated that if necessary to correct the situation he would call a special session of the legislature to empower the council to take any action needed.

Rev. E. E. Hastings, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church of Joliet, Ill., refused to allow the "American Liberty Defense League" of Chicago to justify the "conscientious objectors" in his pulpit. "What have I done to suffer the insult of such a proposal at this time?" said Mr. Hastings. "Why should my son offer himself to protect the man who will use his conscience to evade his duty? My son is at the front. He left Princeton University to enlist in the navy in recognition of the debt to his country."

Newspaper men everywhere will read with regret of the death of Col. Editorial Association, July 10th. B. B. Herbert, of Chicago, at the Minneapolis meeting of the National Col Herbert was 74 years old and was the founder of the N. E. A. 32 years ago. He was in his usual health the first day of the meeting, arranging for a special edition of his paper, the Printer-Journalist. On the second day he was stricken with heart failure and lived only a few hours. He leaves a widow and two sons.

Evansville was 100 years old this month and the Courier, which is about the liveliest wire in that city, rose to the occasion and celebrated with a special midsummer edition which gives much interesting information of the progress of the city and its standing in the country. Evansville is a great manufacturing center, having more than 400 plants. It is also the second largest hardwood lumber market in the world, with its twelve big sawmills, 100,000,000 feet a year capacity. At present the citizens of Evansville are celebrating the acquisition of a new million dollar college and the erection of a splendid new hotel. To get the college the people of Evansville themselves put up half a million dollars. Evansville boasts of $30,000,000 bank deposits and of the fact in its whole history of the city has never experienced a bank failure. The citizens look the full quota of Liberty loan bonds and subscribed their proportionate amount to the Red Cross fund.

TWO TO HELP
MR. HOOVER

Food Director to Have Assistants As Compromise Measure.

TIME WASTED KNOCKING

Leaders Back U. S. Right to Buy Fuel, Wheat, Meat, Potatoes and Beans.

Washington, July 18.—Sentiment in the senate toward compromising differences on the food control bill apparently crystallized on a group of amendments drawn up at joint conferences of democratic and republican leaders.

While on the senate floor another day was spent in criticism of the defense council and other executive bodies, a reprint of the bill was made embodying the leaders' proposals which are expected to remove many basic objections and develop general support.

Principal revisions recommended by the leaders are for limitation of government control of foods, feeds and fuel, including kerosene and gasoline; creation of a special board of food administration of three salaried commissioners instead of administration by an individual; fixing by congress of a basic minimum price of $1.75 per bushel of No. 1 northern wheat; extension of government licensing to elevators, farm machinery, factories, packing houses, coal mines and dealers, fertilizer producers and wholesalers of such products and government purchase and sale, to secure reasonable prices of fuel, wheat, flour, meat, beans and potatoes only.

END COMES TO
WELL-SPENT LIFE

Mrs. Sallie L. Bowling Peacefully Passes Away, Aged 85 Years.

Mrs. Sallie L. Bowling, one of the oldest and most beloved ladies in Hopkinsville, peacefully passed away at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning after a lingering illness, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. H. Wood, at 927 South Main Street.

She was born in one of the Bluegrass counties of Kentucky in September 1832, and would have been 85 years old next September. In early life she became the wife of the late Dr. Henry Bowling, one of the city's leading physicians, and the greater part of her long life was spent near Hopkinsville.

Of several children, only two survive, Jas. M. Bowling, of Clarksville, and Mrs. Wood, with whom she made her home. Another son, Geo. Bowling, died in Clarksville recently.

Her husband was buried at Russellville, where the latter years of his life were spent and her body was taken to that city for interment yesterday.

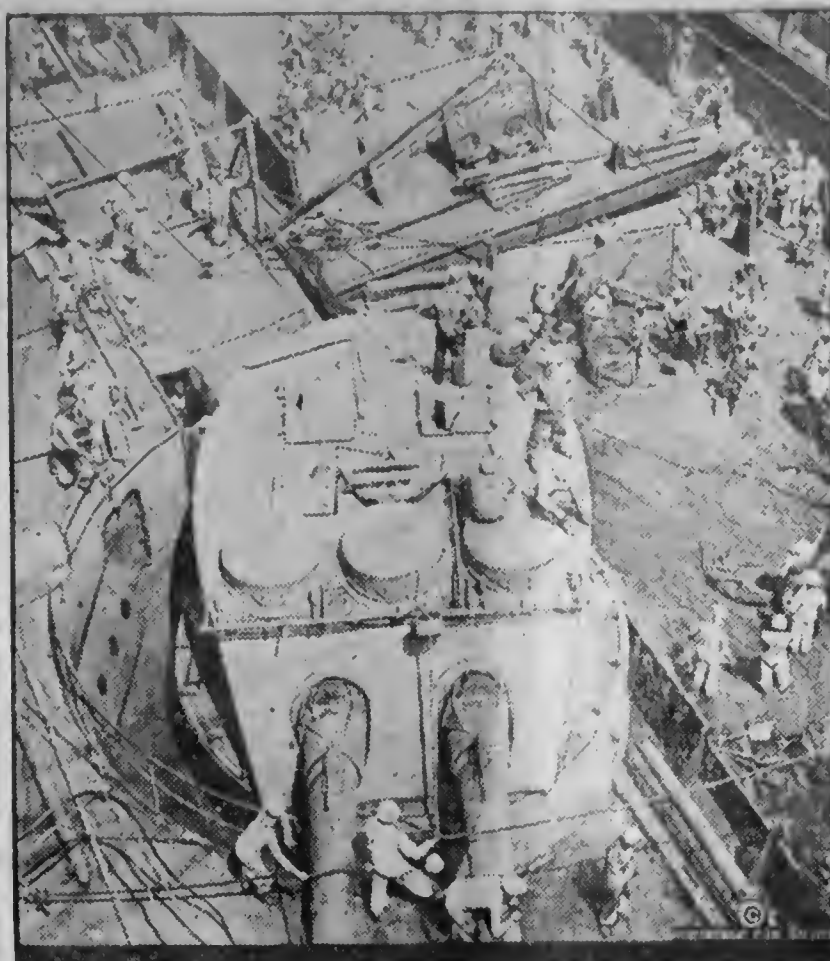

Mrs. Bowling was a life-long member of the Methodist church and was one of the best of women, with a heart filled with charity and goodness. She passed to a richly earned reward in a better land.

Suspicious Murders.

Edward Humphries, a prominent coal operator and mine superintendent, formerly of Philadelphia, his wife and son, Edward Humphries, Jr., were shot to death on a country road near Johnstown, Pa. Geo. C. Thompson, who was with them, reported that bandits did it. He was held as a witness.

Fred H. Freeman, of Henderson, Ky., a gunner on the torpedoed steamer Orleans, was rescued.

PLAN TO BLOCK
AVIATION BILL

House and Senate Committee Has Speeded Plan for Giant Sky Navy.

LaFOLLETTE AND GRONNA

Small Group of Legislators May Reopen Question of Conscript.

Washington, July 18.—Plans of the leaders of both parties in congress for quick action on the administration's aviation bill, providing a great program for striking at Germany through the air, promise to be blocked by a small group of senators, including LaFollette and Gronna, who are planning to reopen the question of conscription.

Senator Chamberlain said an overwhelming majority of the senate is favorable to the bill and is anxious for immediate action. If he is unable to secure unanimous consent for the bill's consideration, he plans to move to take it up and expects to have enough votes behind him.

SUDDEN DEATH
OF J. W. CANNON

Fell a Victim to An Attack of Acute Indigestion Monday Night.

James W. Cannon died suddenly at his home on Elm street Monday night at about midnight, of acute indigestion. He had been at his saloon all day and into the night. When he reached home he appeared as well as usual and ate supper, but was soon afterward taken with an attack of indigestion. A doctor was called and Mr. Cannon appeared to get better and fell off to sleep. Just before midnight he began to breathe heavily and died in a short time, despite the efforts of his family to revive him.

Mr. Cannon had been engaged in the saloon business here for over a year. He was 43 years of age and a native of this county. He is survived by his wife and two children, his mother and three brothers—Richard and C. W. Cannon, of this city, and B. L. Cannon, of Detroit. Also by two sisters—Mrs. Ida Young, of Oklahoma, and Mrs. Dink Carr, of this county.

Funeral services were held at the home yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock and interment was in Riverside cemetery.

HOUSEWIVES
WELCOMED

Soldier Boys All Were Glad To Get One.

The "housewives" or sewing kits, recently sent to the members of Company D at Lexington by the Hopkinsville chapter of the Woman's section of the Navy League, made a big hit with the soldiers.

The following letter from Captain Stites, in behalf of the entire company, expresses the appreciation and thanks of the men:

July 13, 1917.

To the Ladies of the Hopkinsville Chapter of the Woman's Section of the Navy League:

"Our 'Housewives' arrived this afternoon and now every man in the Company has one. There is no way to fully appreciate their convenience, except to be out in camp and suddenly have a button pop off or a seam rip, then you see the soldier rush for his 'housewife,' especially if there is an inspection coming off that day or the next.

There is no place like home to anybody, but that old saying applies most emphatically to us who hail from Hopkinsville. We have not forgotten you all and the thing that pleases us is that you have not forgotten us. Other towns have their companies, but the Hopkinsville company is the only one equipped with Housewives.

Then we have those sweaters coming—it seems sort of funny to be talking about sweaters this time of the year, but they will surely come in good when winter gets here. There is no question about you all spoiling us—nor is there any question about our liking to be spoiled.

With you ladies back of us, we are bound to try, and you sure are with us all the time.

It must be unnecessary for us to tell you how much we appreciate your being so kind to us, for that goes without saying. I wish we were so situated that each one of you could be thanked personally, but please be sure that our hats are off to you all the time and that the Hopkinsville Ladies of the Navy League are the best and most loyal in the world. We think it here and we'll think it when we get to France. Thanking you again, we are,

Sincerely,

Company D, 3rd Ky. Inf., / By HENRY J. STITES, Capt.

UNDERWENT OPERATION.

Mrs. Evie Boyd, who conducts the hotel at Crofton, was operated upon for appendicitis one day this week at her home. A surgeon from this city performed the operation. Her condition is reported as satisfactory.

GETTING READY FOR THE FAIR

City Forces to Put South Virginia Street In Order Without Delay.

WORK NEAR CITY LIMITS

Kentucky Asphalt to Be Used If It Can Possibly Be Secured in Time.

The work of rebuilding South Virginia street has been commenced. Some time back the new street was made from Seventh to 12th streets but now work has been begun at the southern end. Concrete pavements have been built from Alumnae Avenue down to the Virginia street school and the city has begun to tear up the old street from Alumnae to 20th street. It is necessary that concrete pavements be laid before work on the new street can be started, so while work is being pushed on the section above mentioned, the pavements from 20th to 12th street will be laid.

As soon as the work now being done on First street is completed, the entire force at the city's command will be centered on Virginia street, so as to have this busy thoroughfare in readiness for the heavy traffic that goes with the Pennyroyal Fair.

For several years Virginia street has been one of the most used streets in the city, yet it has always been in the worst condition and all the citizens of Hopkinsville will rejoice when the new street is completed. It is not known whether the street will be made with Kentucky rock asphalt or not, as the supply of this material is limited, but the street will be rebuilt from the foundation up and will become one of the best in the city.

BUSY AT THE HOSPITAL

Many Operations and New Patients at Jennie Stuart Hospital.

Mrs. Lattie Wyatt, of Nortonville, was operated upon July 12 and is doing nicely.

Mrs. Charlie Lindsay, of the city, left yesterday after a slight operation.

Mrs. W. L. Harrison, of Bluff Springs, was operated upon yesterday.

W. J. James, of the city, was operated upon yesterday.

Wallace Lacy, operated upon July 12, is improving.

Dr. Rader, a Chautauqua lecturer enroute to Cadiz, was operated upon July 16 for appendicitis.

Mrs. Herbert L. Trice, of Pembroke, operated upon July 14, is improving.

Clarence Dossett left the hospital yesterday, greatly improved and benefited by his treatment for a crooked back.

Mrs. H. W. Easley, of Middlesboro, operated upon July 17, is doing nicely.

Oscar Hight, White Plains, Ky., operated upon recently, is improving.

Leslie Martin, son of O. T. Martin, underwent an operation for appendicitis yesterday.

Many Middies.

The Annapolis Naval Academy authorities has announced the names of 375 candidates who had passed mental tests. Over 1,400 took the examinations. The new class is expected to number over 800.

FRENCH GRAB
SQUARE MILE

On Front of Mile and Half to Depth of Two-thirds of a Mile Foe is Smashed.

TWO FRENCH LINES TAKEN

Positions Lost on Left Bank of Meuse June 29 Seized as Charge Starts.

A powerful attack by the French on the left bank of the Meuse resulted in the capture of German positions on a front of more than a mile and a half to the depth of about two-thirds of a mile.

The war office statement announcing this gain says that the Germans offered an energetic defense and suffered heavy losses, especially in their counter-attacks.

The Russians through strategic reasons have been forced to abandon Kalusz and have taken up a position on the southern side of the Lomnica River. The important crossing of the Lomnica was made secure.

Intensive air fighting continues, and in the latest engagement the British drove down six German machines and forced three others down out of control.

The early days of the war, when German shipping was being combed up on the seven seas by the British fleet, are recalled by announcement from London of the capture of four German steamers by British destroyers. The captures were effected in the North Sea. None of the quartet was a large vessel, the average of the four being about 1,300 tons. They were accompanied by two other German steamers. All made for shore when signalled and the two that finally reached the Dutch coast were badly damaged by gun fire.

LABOR AGENT
CHECKED

In His Efforts to Take Negroes From the South.

Shreveport, La., July 18.—In their efforts to check the migration of negro labor to the North and East, planters of this section are being actively assisted by Sheriff T. R. Hughes and Police Chief J. J. Gray, who last night blocked plans for the exportation of about 200 negroes to Pittsburgh, Pa. Fred Rankin Stier, who said he was a special agent of the Pennsylvania railroad, assisted by a local agency, recruited the negroes, who were boarding coaches when the officers arrived and warned the agents that if they shipped the negroes they would be arrested under the Louisiana law prohibiting the enticing of labor. Stier abandoned the plans and the negroes returned home.

Chicago, July 18.—J. H. Hopkins, New York, who is six feet seven inches tall and weighs 240 pounds, is the champion eater of the Bookmen of America. At the annual picnic of the organization, the New Yorker won the eating contest by consuming four chickens, several helpings of salad and almost a gallon of ice cream. Later in the evening he declared he was hungry and ate a full dinner.

should be planning for the creation

BUDDHA'S GIFT

By ROSE WEIL R.

Nowhere in the world does the Sun,
in his spring greeting, meet with such joyous response from nature as in far away, beauty-dowered Japan.

His call to life, reached in all its compelling sweetness, in a garden in that flowery isle, and joyously the ancient cherry tree in the center of the garden heard, and burst into pinkpetalled splendor, redolent with delicate perfume, wooing bee and butterfly.

Under its waving branches drooped a maiden, delicately lovely as the cherry blossoms above. Her head was bowed, every line of her figure denoted dejection.

Yuki Wan was sad; that morning
she had, after the Japanese custom, been promised in marriage, by her parents to a man the age of her father.

Only last year at this very season,
she had walked "neath the cherry blossoms with an English youth, the prince of her maiden dreams; and,
even as the Sun's call to sleeping nature, had been the call of youth to youth, beauty to beauty, love to love.
And now—ah, the agony of it all! The injustice of it! The uselessness of it! For had she not heard that in that other country, where he lived,
girls married for love, youth mated with youth?

Was there no appeal from parental authority? Must she submit to the inevitable?

Her soul cried out in agony, "Must it be, O, Buddha, must it be?"

Ever since those dream days when love was all, there had lain, carefully hidden beneath the folds of her kimono, a tiny, heart-shaped pendant fashioned from sapphires and pearls, the parting gift of the English youth as he had said to her: "It is like the sky and the cherry blossoms of Japan.
Wear it until my ship sails back again."

With one long pressure of the locket to her heart she clasped the memento in her hand, and passed with faltering steps out of the garden and along a road toward the temple of Buddha.
Ascending the worn stone steps, she made her way hesitatingly to the altar in front of the huge stone image, timidly laid her cherished pendant at its feet and fell on hands and knees in supplication.

Then, with a quivering sob she hurriedly retraced her steps.

Back in the garden Yuki Wan threw herself desolately on the soft grass beneath the cherry tree. Presently she turned her face toward the patches of blue sky, deeply hued as sapphires showing through the rifts in the pink-petalled blossoms. In the broken English she had loved to use because it was the language of her youthful lover, she whispered: "Ah, Buddha, now you more better help me, or maybe so, wash my heart clean from wish for love which is not for Japanese girl."

Then, gently, very gently, her eyelids fluttered and closed, blue tints on ivory-hued cheeks. Like a child, she slept.

In a dream there came to Yuki Wan
the great Buddha, no longer awesome, but with a look of compassion and understanding. Softly he touched her forehead, saying: "It is well."

Yuki Wan awoke, sat up and looked about! All was the same, yet not the same. A new glory seemed to have crept into sky and sunshine.

"Yuki Wan," came a gentle voice.
Slowly Yuki turned her head, and there, stalwart, smiling, arms outstretched, stood the English boy. His ship had sailed back again.

A Different Cut Altogether.

MacIya Arbackie says he went into a small eating house down in his native state of Texas, a few years ago,
and ordered a meal.

"What'll you have to drink, boss?"
Inquired the darky waiter, after Ar-backie had decided what he would eat.
"Bring me a cup of tea," said Ar-backie.

"Yas suh!" said the waiter, and started for the kitchen to execute the commission.

"Hold on a minute!" said Arbackie.

"What sorts of tea have you here?"
"Jes' ten, boss; dat's all I know about it—jes' plain drinkin' tea—hol-an' cold."

"Haven't you any Ceylon tea?"

"Any See-whut, boss?"

"Ceylon ten—Ceylon! Haven't you any Ceylon tea?"

"Nuw, suh! Ise fenned we ain't," confessed the darky. Then he brightened. "But we's got some mighty nice Seelion steaks."—Saturday Evening

As to Licensing Cats.

Senator Robinson, who recently introduced a bill in the legislature of New York state providing for licensing cats, has been deluged with letters on the subject. He says no letter has been received from any man which does not either revile cats or treat the subject with levity. All women who write do so in serious protest. One woman asked that license tags be made ornamental.

Lady.

Trenton, Ga.—Mrs. Ellie Gifford, of this place, writes: "I have always suffered... but was worse after marriage.
I would have... pains and misery in my stomach and hips. I would have a bad sick headache every time, which would generally last two days. I had always heard what a good medicine Cardui was, so I thought I would try it. I used two bottles and it helped me.

Fifteen months later I began to be nervous and was worse at my... But at these times I did not have any pain and do not now suffer any pain. But I was very nervous, so nervous that my hands would shake. Any noise would make me jump. So I took two more bottles of Cardui. I have never been nervous since... and do not have any pain.
I think this is all due to Cardui and Black-Draught."

Cardui, the woman's tonic, is composed only of pure, vegetable ingredients, which have been recognized for many years by standard medical books as of medicinal value, in the treatment of many diseases peculiar to women. Try Cardui.

Internal Heat of Planets.

The late Professor Lowell's discovery that Saturn does not rotate as one piece, but has "conformal layers, rotating faster within," suggests that some of the other large planets may have the same structure. As pointed out by Professor Very, the friction of layers of different velocities would generate heat, and thus retard the cooling down of the planets.—Scientific

YOUNG MEN and WOMEN WANTED

Four hundred and eighty-three young men, from sixteen to twenty-one years of age (not subject to conscription), and two hundred and thirty-five women are wanted to take the training necessary to qualify them for positions in banks, mercantile houses, railroad offices, etc.—positions made vacant by the first and second drafts of bookkeepers and stenographers.

YOUR MONEY BACK.

Young men who qualify at Draughn's for Shorthand work with the Government and are drafted for Government service will get back every cent of the money that they pay for tuition if they are not given office work, instead of trench work, with the Government.

We have on file letters urging us to train, as fast as possible, young men and women for these positions, which pay from NINE HUNDRED to TWELVE HUNDRED dollars a year to begin on. By the Draughn methods—the methods that business men endorse—one can learn Bookkeeping and Shorthand by mail as well as at college, and can learn by mail at one-sixth the cost of learning at college. Write to Draughn's Practical Business College, Nashville, Tenn.—Advertisement.

Daylight at Night.

One of Edison's latest inventions is a portable searchlight, mounted on cart wheels, which will illuminate the side of a building at a distance of over 200 feet, producing at night practically the glare of noonday. From the axle is suspended a box of batteries, which are always ready for use.

Had Plan of Their Own.

One day soon after Pope's defeat at the second Bull Run and Chantilly a private soldier belonging to an Ohio regiment sought an interview with his captain, and announced that he had a plan for a military campaign which must certainly result in crushing out the Secession. The officer very naturally inquired for particulars, but the soldier refused to reveal them, and asked for a chance to lay his plans before Pope himself. After some delay he was given a pass to headquarters. He did not get to see Pope, but after the chief of staff had conferred and promised, and threatened for a quarter of an hour, the Buckeye stood up and replied: "Well, sir, my plan is for John Pope and Bob Lee to swap commands. And if we don't lick the South inside of 60 days you may shoot me for a patent hay-fork swindler!" When he returned to camp he was naturally asked what success he met with, and he ruefully replied: "Well, they had a plan of their own." "What was it?" "Why, they took me out and booted me for a mile and a half."

The Ministry of Newspapers.

It is by the ministry of the newspapers that the nation is united, informed, summoned, and led. So many people take the newspaper for granted, they never think what the sheet is doing for them, or for the land we love. The universality of the newspaper is the sign of its vast utility. The development does not rest merely on a craving for the distraction of news; it is less so now than ever, though the news today is beyond anything in the history of the world. At the bottom, the craving is the will to live in realities. That is why newspapers should be clean, never playing a mere game. If we do not live now in the realities, we may never recover our hold of them. No matter what bread costs, we must know a little of where the world is.—Methodist Recorder.

Bishop's Pretty Compliment.

No titled lady has been working harder in connection with the war than the duchess of Benfort, who is just now taking an active interest in the women-for-the-land movement.

The duchess, who is noted for her charming manner, was once paid a very pretty compliment by a certain bishop.

At a dinner party at her home, at which the bishop was present, she apologized to him after the meal because for some reason or other no grace had been said at the table.

"Don't mention it," said the bishop lastly: "your grace is quite good enough for me."

Mine Echoes Voice 16 Times.

There are many salt mines in Transylvania. The ones in Marosujvar produce, says the National Geographic Magazine, a hundred million pounds of salt a year. In the one at Tordo there is a gallery known as the Joseph gallery, where one may hear his voice echoed and re-echoed 16 times.

NOT MAKING FAIR BARGAIN

She Expected Hubby to Have All Possible Virtues, But Forgot to Take Stock of Her Own.

"What kind of a man are you going to marry?" asked earnest, dark-haired Margaret Ellis.

Her friend Vivian raised her golden head. "I want the man I marry to be entertaining, to be high in his profession, to have money, or the hope of getting it—the kind of man that everyone is anxious to know. That kind could make me happy. Just any man wouldn't do. I couldn't marry just any man."

Grandmother Ellis looked up from her crochet. A quizzical look crept into her gray eyes as they rested on Vivian's attractive face. Then she folded her capable hands in her lap and said:

"Can you cook, Vivian?" "Why, yes, a little. I can make mayonnaise, cake and—fudge," she answered, looking puzzled over the seeming irrelevancy of the question.

"Can you sew?" "No; but I can embroider."

"I see. Of course you can keep house?"

"No, Mrs. Ellis, I cannot. The maid does that at our house."

"I see, I see," mused grandmother. She gazed out of the window for a minute, and when she looked back her eyes were very kind.

"Yes, my dear, you expect to marry someone who has used his time well in making a successful man of himself. He must be so well trained that he will make no mistakes that might cause you discomfort or unhappiness. He must stand the strain of the long days, and the responsibility not only of his work but of his own family—and then he entertaining."

"I wonder often whether women realize just what that means. You, on the contrary, know nothing of your business of being a wife. You enter on the biggest job in life without training. You will learn in time, perhaps, but at the expense of his comfort and your own. The petted doll way of homemaking is marked with tears and regret. Do you think it is quite fair to ask so much and give so little?"

As Grandmother Ellis talked a flush had risen to Vivian's face, but plenty of sense lay behind her beauty. She drew a long breath.

"Thank you, Mrs. Ellis," she said, sincerely. "I have never thought the thing out before. You have given me something that I shall profit by."—Youth's Companion.

Treasures From Europe.

Some of the salvaged treasures of battle-torn Europe are commencing to find their way into the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, and some priceless importations have been unveiled that would have been inaccessible two years ago. The new acquisitions consist of a group of two complete windows and four circular medallions, all from designs of one artist, made at one period, for one abbey church, and that abbey situated only 20 miles from what is today the battle line between France and her enemies, within sound of the cannon of St. Mihiel and Verdun. The windows are typical and excellent examples of the art of glass-making as practiced in France during the early and best phase of the Northern renaissance. The first home of these windows was the Abbey of Flinivigny, near Nancy, Toul and Luneville. Of the two complete windows one illustrates the Deluge, the other Moses and the Law. The other two windows show Moses presenting the tablets of the Law to the Hebrews.

Acres of Coal Afloat.

Only in the United States can such a sight be seen as six acres of coal floating down a river as a single unit. This is the area of coal boats the stern-wheel steamer Sprague is capable of handling as a single tow. Four across-stream rows of 12 boats each make up the principal part, according to the Popular Science Monthly. Back of the fourth row, however, eight boats find places together with two barges. Hence there are 56 boats and two barges in the big fleet. The Sprague has her nose shoved in at the center of the fifth row. The 56 vessels are lashed securely together by lines which run from bow to bow. Although the Sprague can push the fleet ahead, her chief duty is to hold back the load.

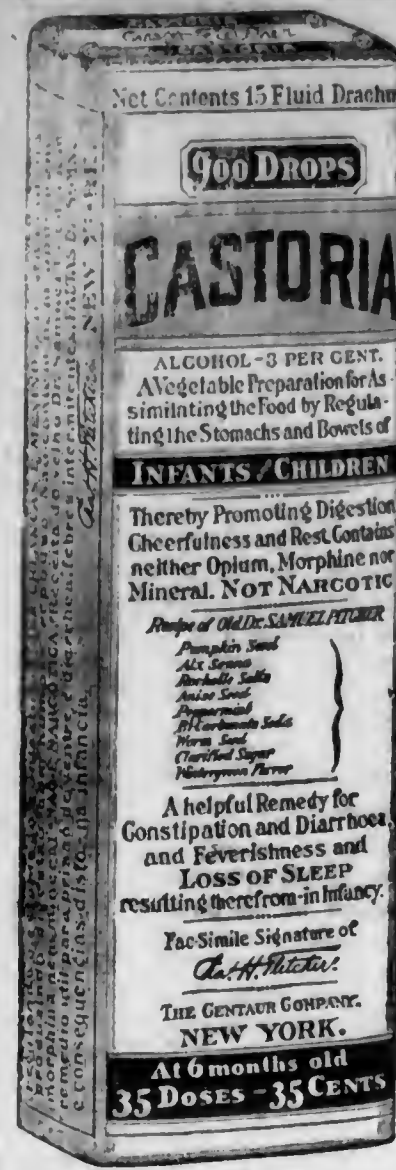

This great amount of coal is handled by a relatively small total of horsepower because the current of the on-flowing river supplies a large part of the requisite energy.

Spinach Good Garden Crop.

There is, perhaps, no other garden crop which gives as much satisfaction as spinach. Ordinarily it occupies the land during the autumn and winter and does not interfere, therefore, with the production of summer vegetables. Three or four ounces of seed planted in the autumn after the summer crop has been harvested will produce an abundance of greens for the average family during the late autumn and early spring. In gathering spinach the entire plant is removed instead of merely cutting off the leaves. By selecting the larger plants first, the smaller or later ones are given room to develop. This method does away with the necessity of thinning.

Dishes From the Indians.

The early American colonists adopted certain dishes from the Indians, among them samp, which is coming into popularity once again today. Roger Williams is credited with having described this as "Indian corn beaten and bolted and eaten hot or cold with milk or butter." "Hominy" was the term applied to maize boiled with alkali, which removed the outer skin of the grain, leaving the inner part soft and good to eat. "Hoe cake," popular with the negroes of the South, is said to have been adopted from the Indians who once inhabited that section of the United States.

READY BY SEPTEMBER

Centralized High School At Newstead With the High School Department.

More than a year ago, at the Church Hill Grange sale, Supt. L. E. Foster in a public address advocated a centralized school for that section of the county. The suggestion was adopted with enthusiasm and many influential men and women of that vicinity immediately began to work on the proposition.

The first thing to be settled was the location of the building. It seemed at first that Church Hill was the logical point, but upon investigation, Newstead proved to be the better location and accessible to more pupils, therefore, the committee, co-operating with the county board of education, decided to place the building just this side of the Newstead store, on the corner of W. H. Boyd's farm. The site for the school is on the right hand side of the road, just beyond Dr. Caudle's residence.

The Newstead school house now being used by the white people is about one-half mile below the Newstead store, and it has also been agreed upon to turn over this house to the colored people, who are badly in need of a new school building, and bring the Newstead white school to this centralized school site.

In order to do this the Christian County Board of Education contributed $1,000 (approximately the price of a new school) and the district by popular subscription has contributed a little over $1,500 to this new school. The new building will cost approximately $2,500. One room will be used for the present common school, one for the 7th and 8th grades from the adjacent schools, and one room for the high school. There will be a library room, which can also be used for a class room. The building will consist of four rooms in addition to the cloak rooms.

This building will be modern in every way and will be equipped with furnace heat. It will be ready for occupancy by the first week in September.

The High School feature will be for pupils of Educational Division No. 5 and, as stated above, the 7th and 8th. Grades from the adjacent districts or from any part of Division No. 5 will have the privilege of attending this school. The reason for this new departure in education is obvious. The pupils in the 7th and 8th Grades in any of the small sub-district schools rarely ever exceed four or five pupils, and by bringing them together in this manner, a large class can be organized with a view to special preparation for High School work. This will relieve the teachers in the above mentioned schools of the extra burden of teaching these few pupils; consequently, allowing more time to the primary department, which contains the bulk of the pupils. This will not in any way diminish the salaries of the teachers in the smaller schools, but will merely give them more time for the lower grades.

The High School course will be only two years in length at first. There will be three teachers at this school the first year. Mr. Lowe G. Johnson will be principal and will have charge of the 7th and 8th grades and the High School work, and Miss Rosa Nourse will have charge of the grades, assisted by the music teacher, who has not yet been selected.

The patrons of that section are very enthusiastic over the proposition and have borne the larger part of the expense of the enterprise. As stated above, it is a new venture, but whose back of it will be followed in other sections of the county.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or ringing in the ears, and which is entirely cured. Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give you $100.00 for any case of Deafness (showing signs of cure) that cannot be cured by local applications. Send for circular free.

FIRED BY LIGHTNING

Belated Report of Barn Burned During Storm Last Saturday.

During the storm which swept the county last Saturday, lightning struck a large stock barn on the J. E. Gossett farm near Julian. The barn was set on fire and completely destroyed. Everything in the barn was consumed save one mare and a colt, which were badly burned before they could be gotten out.

The barn was a large one with modern improvements and contained about eighty barrels of corn, a loft full of hay, a lot of harness and saddles, a buggy and a one-horse wagon, besides some farm implements and machinery.

The loss is estimated at from $2,500 to $3,000, on which there is $1,500 insurance.

MRS. EDWARDS' DEATH.

Mrs. Walter Edwards died at her home in Leesburg, Fla., Sunday, June 24, after a severe illness of Bright's disease. She leaves a husband and seven children to mourn her loss and though she has gone to a home of rest and sweet peace, those left have lost one whose place can never be filled. She was a woman of many noble qualities, a devoted mother, a loving and faithful wife and loyal and true to her host of friends. Her sunny smile and sweet disposition was an inspiration to all who knew her.

She was 37 years of age, was born and reared here, but the last four years had made her home in Florida.

She was a consecrated christian and a member of the Baptist church. The pastor conducted funeral services at her home June 26 and they buried her there.

Moderate Terms, but Hard Fighting.

If you are conscious that your own objects are wholly altruistic, or that they are at least reasonable in the nature and extent of their self-seeking, it does not follow that you must make war in a moderate, inoffensive fashion. If the enemy were also altruistic or reasonable in his desires, it would be a monstrous thing to make war upon him at all, because reasonable and generous nations must find peaceful ways to remove misunderstandings. We are at war with Germany because that nation is wrong both in the objects it pursues and in the methods by which it seeks to gain its ends. It stakes everything upon the use of force guided by such intelligence and skill as have never before been brought to the service of warfare. There is no moderate course, therefore, to be pursued in meeting the German military organization. No argument can now be used against German militarism but that of an adequate opposition expressed in terms of military efficiency. Germany proposes to achieve certain things for herself, regardless of the rights of others, by sheer power. This is a condition that cannot be met by argument or a display of sweet reasonableness. Either German force must be successfully opposed by force, or the world must reconcile itself in advance to the consequences of German victory. —From "The Progress of the World," in the American Review of Reviews for July, 1917.

D. G. EDWARDS AS INVENTOR

Claims to Have a Device To Fight U boats.

D. G. Edwards, formerly manager of the Home Telephone Co., in this city, but now of Woodlawn, Tenn., has invented a submarine destroying device which he has submitted to the government. He has been ordered to furnish immediately full plans and drawings.

Mr. Edwards claims the invention will not only be of benefit against submarines but also of great advantage against land batteries and lines of battle.

WEST KENTUCKY COAL PRICES.

Madisonville, Ky., July 17.—The maximum prices named for the West Kentucky coal district are $3 a ton at the mines for mine run coal and screenings and $3.50 for lump, egg and nut coal. The same coal has been selling at about $3.75 and $4.25 a ton, respectively.

The association members adopted resolutions pledging themselves to continue to exercise every means to increasing the output of coal. They also agreed to protect the government in all purchases from the Western Kentucky mines at a price of 50 cents a ton lower than the regular rates. The operators present said they believed it was their duty to the country to limit the price of coal under existing circumstances, although many of them said the new scale of prices would eat up the profits made last winter during the time of high prices. The operators said they believed the people, industries and public utilities of Western Kentucky are purchasing coal at much lower prices than in other parts of the country and that criticism of the operators is unfair.

What Women Are Doing In War.

Anna Steese Richardson, who is running the department for exchange of ideas for patriotic service in the Woman's Home Companion, says in the August number: "Women the country over are organizing to serve their country. Many of the organizations, devised to give efficient help in desperately needed work, nevertheless prove disappointing to women who wish to join them. These women find, on investigation, that the work of the organizations is too complex, or that they require more than the average woman can give, or that the efforts are duplicated by others, or that the output of work is not satisfactorily distributed, or even that it cannot be used at all.

"Often the women who would like to help, and whose help is really needed, become confused by committees and subcommittees and divisions and subdivisions of subcommittees. The intricacies of organizations are difficult for most of us to grasp, and in relief work of such vast proportions as that occasioned by this war it is impossible to keep the mechanical details simple and direct."

THE TECKTONIUS

Phone, write or call for particulars and prices

Mr. Farmer:

THE AMERICAN FARMER CAN WIN OR LOSE THIS WAR.

This sounds extravagant, but it is true for this reason:

The present world's supply of food stuffs is so far below normal, that between our own appetites and those of our European Allies, somebody is going hungry next fall; UNLESS this year we produce enormously greater herds of beef cattle and much larger cereal yields.

Whether WE and our Allies have plenty next fall depends upon YOU seeing to it that your herds are at least doubled this season and your production increased.

While planning to add more head to your herd, don't make the mistake of failing to supply storage facilities for its winter feed. Nothing is better for stock in winter than SILAGE.

The TECKTONIUS Silo costs but little when compared with what it will bring our Nation and You from cattle supported by the husks and stalks of this year's corn crop.

The Government is providing that the present prices on stock are protected. It now lies with you to do the rest.

There is no use mincing matters—it's up to YOU to strain every effort in furnishing the Nation more meat and grain than ever before.

We're in the war now to finish. "An army crawls upon its belly" and it's up to YOU to see that this belly is kept full.

Buy a TECKTONIUS Silo today and help win the war.

Prayers for Russia

Henry P. Davison, of the American Red Cross says:

The American mission to Russia, under the leadership of the Hon. Elihu Root, while greatly gratified with the situation of affairs, has signified its desire for any aid that the people of the United States give. In the light of this it was suggested that America, of all sects, denominations and faiths were invited in their houses of worship on Saturday and Sunday, the 14th and 15th of July, to therein invoke the blessing of heaven upon the Russian people in their great endeavor.

Troublesome Suffragettes.

Washington, July 17.—Sixteen women suffragists, arrested while participating in the woman's party battle day demonstration in front of the white house, were sentenced in police court Tuesday to serve sixty days in the District of Columbia workhouse for obstructing the sidewalks.

The women were given the alternative of paying $25 fines, but they promptly refused the offer and were taken to the workhouse at Occoquan, Virginia, and turned over to a matron who saw that each got a shower bath and exchanged her clothes for heavy ones. Today they will be assigned to the sewing room of the prison, where they will work seven hours daily.

Vast Corn Deal.

Henderson, Ky., July 18.—Two of the largest corn crops grown last year in this county were sold Monday when Demplewolf brothers sold 21,000 bushels and Preston Mann and Peter Rettig sold 25,000 bushels to the A. Waller Elevator company at $1.89 per bushel. The two crops combined will bring the owners a total of $85,050.

Both crops were grown in what is known as the "Horseshoe bend," across from Evansville.

Death of T. P. Major.

Tcos. P. Major, a native of Trigg county and formerly a well known business man of Clarksville, died Tuesday at Colorado Springs, Col. He was 63 years old. His wife, who was before her marriage, Miss Clara Redd, and one daughter, Mrs. Leola Hart Wallis, of Colorado Springs, survive. The remains will be brought to Clarksville for interment.

The differences between Chairman Denman of the shipping board and Major General Goethals, manager of the board's fleet corporation, have halted the government's shipbuilding program, and each is trying to fix the blame upon the other. Denham claims Goethals is slow to furnish information justifying approval of his plans, and Goethals evidently thinks his plans ought not to be subject to supervision.

MISSING STATES DELAY DRAFT

But The Army Drawing May Be Made This Week.

Washington, July 18.—All but seven of the States had reported completion of their local exemption machinery last night, encouraging officials in their hope that drawing of lots to determine the order of liability under the selective conscription law may be held before the end of the week. Four States reported ready during the day, and the War Department has been informed that in those remaining to report only a few local districts are missing.

Although no details have been revealed it was learned to-night that the plan of the drawing to be held in Secretary Baker's office virtually has been completed and that an announcement on the subject may be made by Provost Marshal General Crowder to-day.

Social Session.

Committees for the coming Elks' reunion next month are being appointed and will be reported to a social session of the lodge to-morrow night. Every Elk is urged to attend the social session. There will be refreshments, speeches and a good time.

SPECIAL REGISTRATION JULY 21.

A special registration for voters in the August primary will be conducted at the county clerk's office on Saturday, July 21.

The Kentucky Statute defines the right to participate in the registration as follows:

"Any persons who were absent from the city or town of their residence during the entire time of the registration of the preceding year.

"Persons who were prevented from registering by reason of their own sickness or by death in their immediate families.

"Persons who moved into the city or town of their present residence after the latest date that would enable them to register for the purpose of voting in the last regular election, and who have the qualifications of voters in the precincts in which they reside.

"Persons who have become of age since the last election and who have the qualifications of electors."

Registration is required only within the corporate limits of Hopkinsville.

Ready To Move.

Mobilization of the National Guard for war service began this week and there are indications that many units will be ordered to take transports for France soon after August 5.

The I. W. W. Troubles.

The I. W. W. in peacetimes are bad actors. But of late their bare treasury has suddenly become filled. Simultaneously with this increase in wealth came the calling of strikes in a number of mining towns with the usual disorder that follows all the activities of the Industrial Workers of the World. In war time this has a sinister look.

What the merits of the strikes are, we do not know. But they are called in communities where the great majority of the men are miners. The opinion of these miners as expressed by their acts is that the I. W. W. are stirring up strife and causing disorder without warrant or cause. It seems reasonable to assume that these miners being on the ground are best able to determine the justice of the cause.

Their verdict is that the I. W. W. should be run out of the mining camp and they have put their verdict into execution. Those deported are evidently new comers in the mining districts. They have established no homes there and are suffering no hardships in being driven out. They are not even deprived of work, for they are on strike.

The situation probably is not a simple one to deal with. But it seems likely that the people of the mining camps have taken the most practical method of dealing with it.

A QUIET TALK

"When a fellow gets so he can't discuss a subject without getting mad," said Casey, the coal man, to his neighbor, Welsenhelm, "he ought to shut up and not talk at all. When a fellow begins to get mad it's a sure sign to me that he's run out of arguments."

"Certainly," said Welsenhelm. "We should be tolerant of one another's opinions. If we didn't exchange opinions about things, we'd never learn anything, and the best sign of culture—and good common sense, for that matter—to my mind is the consideration we give to other people's ideas. When I was at Heidelberg—"

"That's what I say," interposed Casey, earnestly. "I tell you it pays to listen to the other fellow. You'll get a different angle on the thing. After all, none of us are always right—the other fellow is right sometimes—and just because he happens to differ with you is no reason why you shouldn't listen to what he says—he may be right that particular time."

"Certainly. Besides, the ability to discuss matters with others from an absolutely unprejudiced standpoint, and from an honest desire to improve our knowledge upon the subject discussed, is the highest test of intellectual poise. Our old professor of metaphysics used to say—"

"You're right, old man—that's the point," said Casey. "There's nothing makes me so sore as a fellow that absolutely can't and won't see but one side to a question. . . . I see old Wilson has fired another shot at the kaiser—"

"Shot? What kind of a shot this time, Brother Casey?" asked Welsenhelm, blandly.

"About those Yarrowdale prisoners that the kaiser is holding over there—Wilson tells him, cold turkey, he's got to come across with them without any more parley—that last note was straight from the shoulder."

"Yes—that's good. I hope they will be released. This unfortunate war—"

"Unfortunately? It's a blamed outrage, that's what this war is. The idea of raising all that fuss about an Austrian archduke, or whatever he was—"

"Oh, there's a good deal more to this war than that little affair, Mr. Casey. That was a mere incident. The underlying causes are deep and fundamental. It is really a struggle between two antagonistic ideas of civilization and progress—"

"Oh, back up with that stuff, Welsley—that makes me sick. There ain't anything to this war but old Bill Hohenzollern's rule-or-ruin policy. He's going to run things over there or bust 'em up. He is just a big political boss, with a big army to back him up, that's all Bill is—"

"I beg pardon, Mr. Casey, now, really, that don't sound good from a man of your intelligence. If you've read the 'White Book'—"

"White fiddlesticks—I hope you are not falling for that book?"

"Before I would talk about this war I would read the official documents. If I were you—what's the use of talking to a fellow like you, that don't read anything—"

"Don't read anything? Now, there you go, Welsley—why, I don't do anything but read about the war. If there's anything about the war that I don't know, I'm darn sure you can't tell me. The trouble with you, Welsley, is you're prejudiced."

"The trouble with you, Casey, is that you're a boobyhead—"

"Boobyhead? Boobyhead? Say, Welsley, if I had a head as hard as yours, I'd soak it in something, like they do wood pulp, to soften it up, so you can get an outside idea into it once in a while. You think you know it all, and you don't know nothing."

"Casey, there's two kinds of people I won't argue with, idiots and children—and you're no child, I'll say that much for you—"

"Argue? Why, you can't argue. You wouldn't know a fact if you saw it coming up the middle of the street, with an affidavit on each side of it. Argue? You just think you are saying something when you're just making funny sounds. If I had a head as thick as yours, Welsley—"

"Aw, you ought to be going to school instead of trying to sell shale for coal—"

"Say, you better go back to Heidelberg—"

"You ignoramus."

"You ivory-headed nut."

"Idiot."

"Boobyhead."

Bleeders and the Fruit Diet.

The fruit diet is a sure and positive cure for what is popularly known as bleeding and for persons usually designated as bleeders; persons who cannot stop the flow of blood once it is started from a wound or other cause. The fruit diet will supply the blood with fibrin. Fibrin is the substance out of which nature fabricates flesh and muscle. A person on the fruit diet hardly bleeds at all when he cuts himself accidentally with a knife, or when, for anterior reasons, a dentist is forced to draw one of his teeth. The blood coagulates almost instantaneously. If you believe none of this just try it. The experience is safe and sane.—Los Angeles Times.

"More necessary even than to inclose poetry," responded the experienced author.—New York Sun.

The August Woman's Home Companion.

A new department for the exchange of ideas for patriotic service starts in the August Woman's Home Companion. It will be run by Anna Steese Richardson and she welcomes suggestions and questions concerning war service. A new serial called "The White Towers," by Juliet Wilbor Tompkins, begins and will be finished in the September issue. Other good stories in this number are "Understudying Jane," by Mary Hastings Bradley; "The Lost Emblem," by Gertrude MacNulty Stevens, and "The Better Part," by Alice Chaplin. Special articles on economy and war service, practical suggestions about the home, and interesting material in all the regular departments help to complete an excellent number.

Clean Living With Sanitary Surroundings.

It is a remarkable fact many of the physicians at the sanatoria of the country have what are termed "arrested cases" of tuberculosis, preferring to call them that than cured cases, because the disease is liable to recur from the original causes, unless a rule of life is adopted that will prevent further trouble. These doctors know that vigilance is the price of health, as it is of liberty, and avoid contaminating conditions, excesses, dissipation, and over exertion, while never neglecting to breathe all the fresh air possible, observe cleanliness of persons and surroundings and spend as much time in the open air as they can. Send Dr. W. L. Heizer, Secretary of the Tuberculosis Commission, Frankfort, for pamphlet giving the rules that have been found by experience to prevent tuberculosis infection and the proper method of dealing with the disease after it develops.

The War department is planning to use women radio operators.

The Saving Habit

No matter who you are, where you are, or how old you are, it is your duty to save money.

Are you rich now? You may become poor if you don't save.

Are you poor? You may become rich if you save money and invest it wisely.

If you already have capital, economy will preserve it for your use in times of greater need. If you have none, you can acquire it by the same means.

Your whole mind need not be set continuously and exclusively upon the pursuit of wealth. There are other things in life as desirable as making money.

Nevertheless, it is right for you to be as careful of your expenditures as you can be without being miserly or close.

Youth is emphatically the time to begin to save, but it is never too late to start.

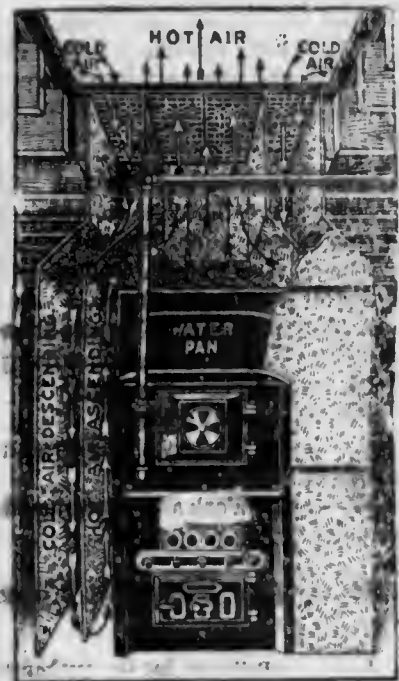

Indeed, the main object of saving in early life is not so much the actual amount saved, but it is the foundation of the habit of economy.

Hooks Without Holes.
Persons living in apartments or furnished rooms will find this a useful device for increasing closet capacity. Fasten one end of a heavy wire—picture wire works well—to a hook in the closet, thread the other end through the spring of a patent clothespin, wind the wire about the second hook and so on around the closet until there is a clothespin between each pair of hooks. This is an excellent way of holding skirts or coats and can be removed easily.

Importance of Labor.
"If we rightly estimate things, what is them is purely owing to nature and what to labor, we shall find that 99 parts out of a 100 are wholly to be put on the account of labor."—Locke.

Not Always.
"It's the thing we haven't that makes us unhappy," remarked the parlor philosopher. "How about the tooth-ache?" suggested the mere man.—Minneapolis Tribune.

VARIETY IN HIS WRITINGS

Author of Many Popular Dime Novels
Later Repented and Produced
Several Serious Works.

Perhaps there was something in the atmosphere of Maine that set the literary tide toward blood-and-thunder. At any rate, one of the most popular authors of dime novels was J. H. Ingraham, who was born in Portland and died in 1866 in the South. His was a varied career. He abandoned mercantile pursuits and became a teacher in Washington college, near Natchez, Miss., and in 1839 produced a volume of his impressions of the Southwest.

Then he turned his attention to dime novel writing and brought out "The Danelling Star, or the Smuggler of the Chesapeake," published in Boston. This was followed by three dime novels published in New York in 1852-3. "Captain Kyd, or the Wizard of the Sea," "Josephine, or the Maid of the Gulf," and "Danelling Feather, or the Pirate Schooner," three frankly piratical, though not pirated stories. "Lady Imogene, a Tale of Long Island Sound," is not a pirate story, but is the equal of the others in literary merit.

In later life he repented, and while his dime novels are not to be found on the shelves of public libraries, possibly among the dust-covered volumes in the regions where the uncalled-for books are placed may be found his serious works, "A Prince of the House of David," "The Pillar of Fire" and "The Throne of David," produced after he had been ordained as an Episcopal minister and rector of St. Thomas' Hall, an academy for boys at Holly Springs, Miss.

DEATH OF CHEVALIER BAYARD

Gallant French Knight Met End Heroically While Leading Fight Against Traitor's Army.

It was on April 30, 1524, that the Chevalier Bayard was killed in battle. His end was characteristic. Engaged in a campaign in northern Italy, where the imperial army under the traitor, De Bourbon, was pressing hard upon the retreating French troops, Bayard was asked to take the command and save the army. "It is too late," he said, "but my soul is God's and my life is my country's." Then putting himself at the head of a body of men at arms, he held the enemy at bay until struck down by a ball. He was thrown from his horse, but refused to retire, saying that he had never shown his back to the enemy.

He was placed against a tree, facing the advancing host. In the want of a cross he kissed his sword, and because of the absence of a priest he confessed to his mistress d'hotel. When De Bourbon came up and expressed regret at seeing him in such condition, he said: "Weep for yourself, sir. For me, I have nothing to complain of; I die in the course of my duty to my country. You triumph in betraying yours; but your successes are horrible and the end will be sad." Having uttered these words the gallant knight died and was buried by his enemy on the field with military honors.

Garibaldi for Freedom.

Where his study window looks out on the yellow waters of the Tiber, winding through the Rome for which he fought so long and bravely, I listened, one afternoon in late December, to that fiery old warrior, Gen. Rieclotti Garibaldi, while he spoke of the war and of Italy's part in it. Lewis R. Freeman writes in World's Work. "All of my boys are fighting," he had said, "and my daughters and my wife are nursing. Two of the boys are gone—killed in France—but the other five are with the Italian army. They are all good fighters, I think; but one of them—Peppino, the eldest—is also an able soldier. Or at least he ought to be, for he has been trained in the 'Garibaldi' school. There hasn't been a war (save that between Russia and Japan) or revolution in any part of the world in the last twenty years in which he hasn't drawn a sword, carried a rifle or swung a machete."

Babies' Cries Set to Music.

The crying of babies is not regarded as musical, but nevertheless it is. Rev. Noel Bonava Hunt, a senior curate of St. Matthew's church, Willesden, England, has set infants' cries to music. He was particularly impressed with the beauty and musical quality of the wails and cries of the infants at the baptismal services held at St. Matthew's. He tried to persuade the church musicians to catch the sounds and set them to music, but they refused. At length Rev. Mr. Hunt himself recorded the sounds in the form of a chant set to the words of the One Hundred and Thirty-seventh psalm: "By the waters of Babylon we sat down and wept, when we remembered thee, O Zion." "The composition is original," Rev. Mr. Hunt says, "and it is a little grotesque, but it is musical. It represents the meaning of the words to which it is set."

Bauxite in British Guiana.

Bauxite in considerable quantities has been discovered in British Guiana. Prospecting and development work has been carried on for the past two and one-half years with satisfactory results, and today the first shipment of this product is being made, a full cargo of 980 tons being sent to consignees in the United States. Development work has now reached a stage where a steady output is assured, and other shipments are expected to follow at frequent intervals.

Sensation of Hunger.

The sensation of hunger may not be an evidence of the immediate need of food. The people of Ireland, used to voluminous rations of potatoes, complain of starvation and hunger when given greater food values, but in smaller bulk. The same is true of the bread-eating peasants of Bavaria when put on a meat diet.

Too Numerous.

The seven ages of man have been expertly defined by Shakespeare, but even he, in all his wisdom, would never take such liberties with the ages of woman.—Exchange.

Produce Infertile Eggs!

Infertile Eggs Keep Best and Market Best in Summer Heat

Fertile Eggs Spoil Quickly in Summer Weather

FERTILE EGGS COST THE FARMER AN ENORMOUS SUM EACH YEAR

Farmers lose millions of dollars annually from bad methods of producing and handling eggs. One-third of this loss is preventable, because it is due to the partial hatching of fertile eggs which have been allowed to become warm enough to begin to incubate.

The rooster makes the egg fertile

The fertile egg makes the blood ring

You can save the money now lost from blood rings by keeping the male bird from your flock after the hatching season is over.

The rooster does not help the hens to lay. He merely fertilizes the germ of the egg. The fertile germ in hot weather quickly becomes a blood ring, which spoils the egg for food and market. Summer heat has the same effect on fertile eggs as the hen or incubator.

INFERTILE EGGS WILL NOT BECOME BLOOD RINGS

After the hatching season cook, sell or pen your rooster. Your hens not running with a male bird will produce infertile eggs—quality eggs that keep best and market best.

Rules for Handling Eggs on the Farm—

Heat is the great enemy of eggs, both fertile and infertile. Farmers are urged to follow these simple rules, which cost nothing but time and thought and will add dollars to the poultry yard returns:

1. Keep the nests clean; provide one nest for every four hens.
2. Gather the eggs twice daily.
3. Keep the eggs in a cool, dry room or cellar.
4. Market the eggs at least twice a week.
5. Sell, kill, or confine all male birds as soon as the hatching season is over.

NOTICE Valuable published information on the raising and care of poultry and eggs and individual individual advice on these subjects may be obtained by writing to the Bureau of Animal Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION OF THE NEW YORK WORLD IN 1917

Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly. No other Newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price.

The value and need of a newspaper in the household was never greater than at the present time. The great war in Europe is now half way into its third year, and whether peace be at hand or yet be far off, it and the events to follow it are sure to be of absorbing interest for many a month to come.

These are world-shaking affairs, in which the United States, willing or unwilling, is compelled to take a part. No intelligent person can ignore such issues.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the together for one year for $2.65. The regular subscription price of the two papers is $3.00

Sounds All Right. Myrtle, who was in the fifth grade, asked her younger sister if she knew what a rectangle was. "Why, certainly," she answered. "A rectangle is a man tangled up in a wreck."

USELESS FEAR OF BACTERIA

Authority Says People Are Allowing Themselves to Be Needlessly Worried Over the Subject.

To timid individuals a recent article in the Journal of the American Medical Association on "Bacteria on Paper Money and Books" may bring comfort.

The Sun has endeavored to present only the most reliable scientific aspect of the subject of germ diseases, because the usual hasty generalizations of science and baseless assertions which continually appear in print under the guise of scientific authority sooner or later redound to the discredit of real progress. An unwarranted skepticism is aroused and the distrust of an obvious misstatement unconsciously becomes magnified into a reactionary indifference to the better contributions of scientific men. The championship of half or conjectured truths inevitably acts in the course of time as a barrier to the very objects which are sought in public reforms, for in the end truth always prevails.

Some years ago the Sun called attention to the erroneous idea that tuberculosis may be contracted by persons using the telephone mouthpiece which has been used by many others. We showed that the postmaster general of Great Britain had the mouthpieces on the telephone under his control examined bacteriologically, with the result of no disease germs being discovered upon them. The Journal comments upon the popular opinion of a few years ago that the handling of soiled paper money was extremely dangerous on account of the bacteria that may adhere to it. The fact is that bank tellers do not share this notion, nor do they present evidence of exceptional liability to infectious diseases. It has been positively ascertained and published in the Popular Science Monthly that paper money constitutes an unimportant factor in the transmission of disease. While clean paper money satisfies our esthetic sense, it has not been proved that soiled money is likely to become a medium of disease transmission.

With regard to books, it is the custom to disinfect them, when soiled, by exposure to sunlight and air, but it is a fact that the hygienic laboratory of Johns Hopkins has not found germs of diphtheria, for instance, on books coming from homes in which children had been suffering from this disease. The fact is that the majority of bacteria found on books are the same as those found in atmospheric air, and that the colon bacterium, which is frequently found on the hands of schoolchildren, has rarely been found on the books they handle. There is really no material risk involved in the reissue of books recently read by consumptives, unless the books are obviously soiled and even then the risks are very slight. Since, however, bacteria like the typhoid and diphtheria organisms have been occasionally discovered on artificially infected books, there may be good reason for subjecting all returned books to direct sunlight before redistribution.

Practically the danger from soiled money and books is no more obvious than the danger from the mouthpiece of the telephone.—New York Sun.

Great American Industry.

They are striking figures that the bureau of education gives in its report on the schooling of the American people. They show that 24 per cent of the population—a trifle less than one-fourth of the American people—are in school, either as pupils or as teachers.

School, it thus appears, is our greatest national industry. And the proportion of brains, hearts and souls that this industry absorbs, in comparison with the three other leading countries in the world, is an inspiring revelation of America's thirst for knowledge. In Germany, the country that ranks next to the United States in the scope of its educational equipment, 20 per cent of the population are in school; in Great Britain, 19 per cent; in France, 17 per cent.

In the United States there are 23,500,000 persons enrolled in various educational institutions. What an army of hope that is—the army that will create and guard America's future!—New York Mail.

Material for Shoes.

For shoes what will come after leather? Cloth of suitable kinds may be used and rubber or similar material may enter into the product, but manufacturers seem to look most hopefully upon paper as the basic substance. Paper leather of attractive appearance, adapted for many purposes as well as the natural leather, is, in fact, said to be satisfactorily made already. In a German process, paper of long fiber is converted into pulp, suitably colored, made flexible with glycerine and non-drying oils and waterproofed with shellac solution given the grain of morocco or other leather by pressing in a matrix and finished with lacquer. The matrix is formed by taking an impression of the natural leather in shellac.

Systematic Procedure.

"I don't believe we can stand all these additional expenditures you are planning."

"Well, Charley, dear," replied young Mrs. Torkins, "I'll tell you what we'll do. We'll go ahead and make them, just the same, and you can be a committee to observe and determine whether the experiment is a success."

To Hold Friendship.

SNAILS AID THE WAR FLIERS

Apparently Useless Creatures Show Aviators When Machines Are Out of Balance.

The variety of material used in modern war is simply extraordinary. A large price was paid last summer by the French for dried walnut leaves. It is said that these are used for staining the faces and hands of sharpshooters so as to darken their complexions.

White mice used to be kept in submarines to give timely notice of the escape of injurious gases. It appears that there is now a demand for snails for the French aircraft service. These apparently useless creatures have, it seems, a most amazing sense of balance. They know instantly when one side or the other of an airplane is higher or lower than the opposite side, and immediately begin climbing up the incline so caused.

A pilot, therefore, has only to place a few snails on the fuselage of his machine, in front of him, and can then get an indication of his balance with a minimum of trouble. It should be added that, when in a cloud, it is next to impossible to judge of the tilt of a plane without some special telltale.

TOBOGGAN FOR GERMS LATEST

Health Officer Plans to Circumvent Bacteria Which Dance on Water and Wait for Victims.

A germ toboggan is the big feature of a perfected type of drinking fountain designed by Dr. H. A. Whittaker of the sanitation division of the state board of health, following a recent discovery that in some types of fountains the germs dance on the water and wait for victims, says the St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

After eastern investigators announced their findings, Doctor Whittaker began experiments on 77 fountains at the University of Minnesota. These disclosed that all of the 15 different types were improperly constructed to prevent contamination by the consumer and that 80 per cent were infected.

Then Doctor Whittaker designed a fountain which throws a slanting jet of water and makes it impossible for the germs to dance as on the vertical jets.

One of the perfected fountains was built and installed and the results have been entirely satisfactory.

MUCH TONGUE WAGGING.

Tommy's head appeared above the counter.

"Please, I want a loaf of stale bread."

"We have no stale bread left," said the shopman. "Won't fresh bread do as well?"

Tommy thought a minute.

"Yes," he said. "Mother wanted stale bread, but she's gone across to Mrs. Hatchem's to talk about the goings-on at Mrs. Frivel's last night, and it'll be stale by the time she gets back."

UNFORTUNATELY SAID.

"I grovel here before you in the dust!" observed the impassioned youth, as he sank onto the drawing-room floor.

"I don't know what you mean by dust," replied she, coldly. "I look after this room most carefully myself every morning."

THEY WERE HANDED DOWN.

"What superb teeth she has!"

"Yes, but they are false."

"Why do you think so?"

"She told my sister that she inherited her excellent teeth from her mother."

Abdications of History.

Ever since dynasties have existed there are records of kings having abdicated from one cause and another. Far back in the misty past one monarch gave up his throne because he was "wearied with dominion;" another retired out of preference for the freedom of private life; a third laid down his crown because his schemes failed; still another abdicated in a fit of melancholy; and there are two instances in which kings left their thrones because they were unable to cope with national crises.

How to Teach a Dog.

Kindness, firmness, and patience are necessary qualities in teaching a dog. Nothing can be done by cruelty, and if you lose your temper you will never teach him anything. It is very little sense trying to teach an old dog. Begin when he is young and do not overfeed him. Also do not overfeed him, for most of the lessons have to be taught by a system of small rewards in the shape of tit-bits of food.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Worrying Always Weakens.

Worrying is always weakness. It is always danger. In a sense, though often excusable and sometimes unavoidable, it is cowardice; and cowards, as Shakespeare tells us, "die many times before their death." We may regard worry as the price paid by humanity for advance in education and in refinement of feeling; but it is a higher price than need be paid.—Exchange.

Indiana Good Orchardists. The American apple owes much to the care of the Indian farmers, for the Indian was an able pomologist. It was not unusual 150 years ago for Indian orchards to have 1,500 trees, which all had been duly pruned and cultivated by the people we are prone to regard as nomadic savages. The peach and quince were also cultivated by them in later years. To the world the Indian introduced such fruits as the persimmon, the pawpaw, the pineapple and the Virginia strawberry.

CLEARANCE SALE

AT

WALL & MCGOWAN'S

Begins Friday, July 20---Doors Open Promptly at 8:30 A. M.

WE are going to put on a sale right in the face of the greatest world war ever known---when prices are going up by leaps and bounds. No conditions ever existed in the textile world like that which now confronts us. Government requirements must be taken care of first, and these are large, consuming a large part of the country's wool and manufacturing facilities. Then, again, the advance in wages of labor, woolens, trimmings and everything that enters into production, and cotton is selling for double what it did a year ago. But all of this is just in keeping with the products of the farm. Wheat is now worth over two dollars. The farmers are going to realize the best prices for tobacco that has been paid since the civil war. This will be the most prosperous year for farmers ever known, and we invite you to attend this sale.
